

THE NIGHT BEFORE

BY LAURENCE LIBRALATO

On the 1st of May 2010, it was a dark spooky night. The wolves were howling the trees were blowing side to side. But there was one little monster called Fat Pack Joe, he was a small, smart, courageous little monster. He lived in the North East of Cape Town, right next to the huge old Graveyard. This Graveyard was like no other, the trees were dead, and the old little church was destroyed by a tornado. The big black crows with their small little yellow eyes, but most of all there was a incredibly small old man with his glass eye that digs the graves and that really scared Fat Pack Joe the most. Whenever Fat Pack Joe walks past the Graveyard the old man stares at him.

One day Fat Pack Joe and his mate Peter just went and saw the new ZOMBIELAND movie. That movie really scared them with all the blood and intense music. Fat Pack Joe and Peter talked about it the whole walk home. Fat Pack Joe's favourite part was when it finished, and Peter's favourite part was when the zombies died. Fat Pack Joes house was just around the corner but he had to walk past the Graveyard to get home. But Fat Pack Joe was really scared so he tried to get Peter to go a different way. But Peter said "It will take longer that way". So they went their separate ways. Twenty minutes later Fat Pack Joe gets home and Peter is not there. So Fat Pack Joe goes back outside and looks around. Then he sees the creepy old guy in the Graveyard, so he goes over and asks if he had seen Peter. The creepy old guy said "No" that's when Fat Pack Joe saw a foot sticking out from the grave. That made Fat Pack Joe think where was Peter? So Fat Pack Joe asks again "Are you shore you haven't seen Peter" and the old guy said "No". Then the foot twitched. As well as a mumbling noise. So Fat Pack Joe quickly grabbed the shovel off of the creepy old guy, and started digging up the body. Then a face appeared and..... Fat Pack Joe blanked out and woke up in his bed. And as quickly as he could he looked out his window and saw that the grave was empty. He thought it could have been a dream because of the scary movie they saw.

So Fat Pack Joe got ready and went to Peters. When Fat Pack Joe got there, there was a note on the door that said "Dear Joe, not home today attending Peters funeral because of his tragic death from suffocating. From Peter's family". So Fat Pack Joe ran to the funeral and on his way he thought "It's my entire fault this would not have happened if I went with him past the Graveyard" and when he got there he saw Peters body and said "NOOOOOOOOOO!!!!!!!!!" Then when he got home he told his family everything and asked to move houses. And they did and they lived happily ever after.